ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This publication was prepared by the National Occupational Analysis and Classification Systems Branch, Employment and Immigration Canada, under the general direction of L.G. Dixon, Director.

The planning, coordination and processing of this publication was undertaken by G.D. Robertson, Chief - Operations Division, in conjunction with staff members D. Cruickshank, L. Marshall, M-C. McHugh, A. McRory and J. Zenko.

Special acknowledgement is extended to the Word Processing Coordination Group, Policies and Systems, Services Administration, who produced this GUIDE through word processing communication technology.

Employment and Immigration Canada also wishes to acknowledge the contributions of the many business firms, associations, labour organizations, other government agencies, and individuals who contributed, directly or indirectly, to the publication of this document.

SPECIAL NOTICE

In determining the data for inclusion in CCDO publications, many thousands of jobs were examined and analyzed to determine their content. No facts were collected, however, on such matters as hours of labour, wages or salaries, or other related employment practices.

As the content of specific jobs varies with each individual establishment, most of the occupational definitions describe the work performed in broad terms. For these reasons, the data in this publication cannot be considered as standards for setting working conditions, pay scales or related employment conditions, and Employment and Immigration Canada accepts no responsibility for the setting of these or other jurisdictional matters.

It is to be noted that the presence or absence of Physical Activities (PA) factors in a CCDO occupational description is not to be misconstrued as indicating that the physically handicapped can or cannot perform the duties of that occupation.

CONVERSION TABLES

Changes in Occupational Titles and Codes

From 1971 CCDO to Major Group Booklets 23, 25, 27, 31, 61, 71, 73, 75, 77, 87

If an occupational classification system is to accurately reflect the world of work, it must be sufficiently flexible to adjust to the dynamics of an ever-changing world. New occupations emerge, others become obsolete, and still others combine or fractionate. The change in format of the CCDO from a single volume to many small booklets of related Major Groups, together with this GUIDE as an annual supplement, is intended to accommodate these many changes.

The conversion tables, beginning on the next page, have been compiled to acquaint users of the CCDO with changes in the classification structure which have occurred as a result of the revision of Major Groups 23, 25, 27, 31, 61, 71, 73, 75, 77 and 87. The following changes are described:

- New occupations — those which have emerged since the 1971 CCDO, or which had not been previously described in the CCDO.
- Obsolete occupations — those which studies have shown to be either obsolete or reduced to insignificant numbers for classification purposes.
- Combined occupations — those which have been combined to form a single, new occupation.
- Fractionated occupations — those which have been fractionated into two or more separate and distinct occupations.
- Transferred occupations — those which have been transferred from one group to another to enable easier and more accurate coding.
- Changes in titles — those occupations in which the titles have changed but the duties themselves have remained much the same (except sex-discriminatory titles, which have been converted in a separate publication).

INTRODUCTION SECTION

THE CLASSIFICATION STRUCTURE

The CCDO is a systematic and comprehensive arrangement of occupational descriptions reflecting the work performed by the Canadian people. These descriptions represent a summary of the significant activities of a number of similar jobs that may be found in different establishments or industries. The significant duties, or the "kind of work performed", act as the basic principle for classifying occupations.

The classification structure consists of four levels of occupational categorization, each providing successively finer detail:

1. The Major Group
2. The Minor Group
3. The Unit Group
4. The Individual Occupations

In the classification structure, there are 23 Major Groups which represent occupations identified only on a very broad basis. Each Major Group has a two-digit code number, a title, and a definition which summarizes the occupational activities in the group.

The Major Groups are subdivided into 81 Minor Groups, each with distinguishing characteristics. Each Minor Group has a three-digit code number, a title, and a summarizing definition which may contain notes required to explain unusual factors.

The third level of aggregation is comprised of 499 Unit Groups, which represent a collection of more closely-related occupations. Unit Groups have a four-digit code number, a title, and a definition. Unit Group definitions conform to the same pattern as those of the Major and Minor Groups, but are more specific in their description of occupational activity.

Finally, the Unit Groups are broken down into individual, unique occupations (some 7,500 in the 1982 CCDO), an occupation being the narrowest category specifically identified in the classification system. An individual occupation is identified by a seven-digit code number and a title, such as 8784-114 PLASTERER. The last three digits (-114), called the terminal digits, provide the unique code number within the classification structure for each occupation. Terminal digits also determine the sequence of occupations within a Unit Group, for occupations are normally arranged in a descending order of complexity as determined by training time requirements. Terminal digits begin with (-110), and are normally spaced in increments of two or more to allow for the future inclusion of additional occupations.

While classification into Major, Minor or Unit Groups is usually based on a similarity of work performed, supplementary criteria are also used to further clarify the nature of the work performed.

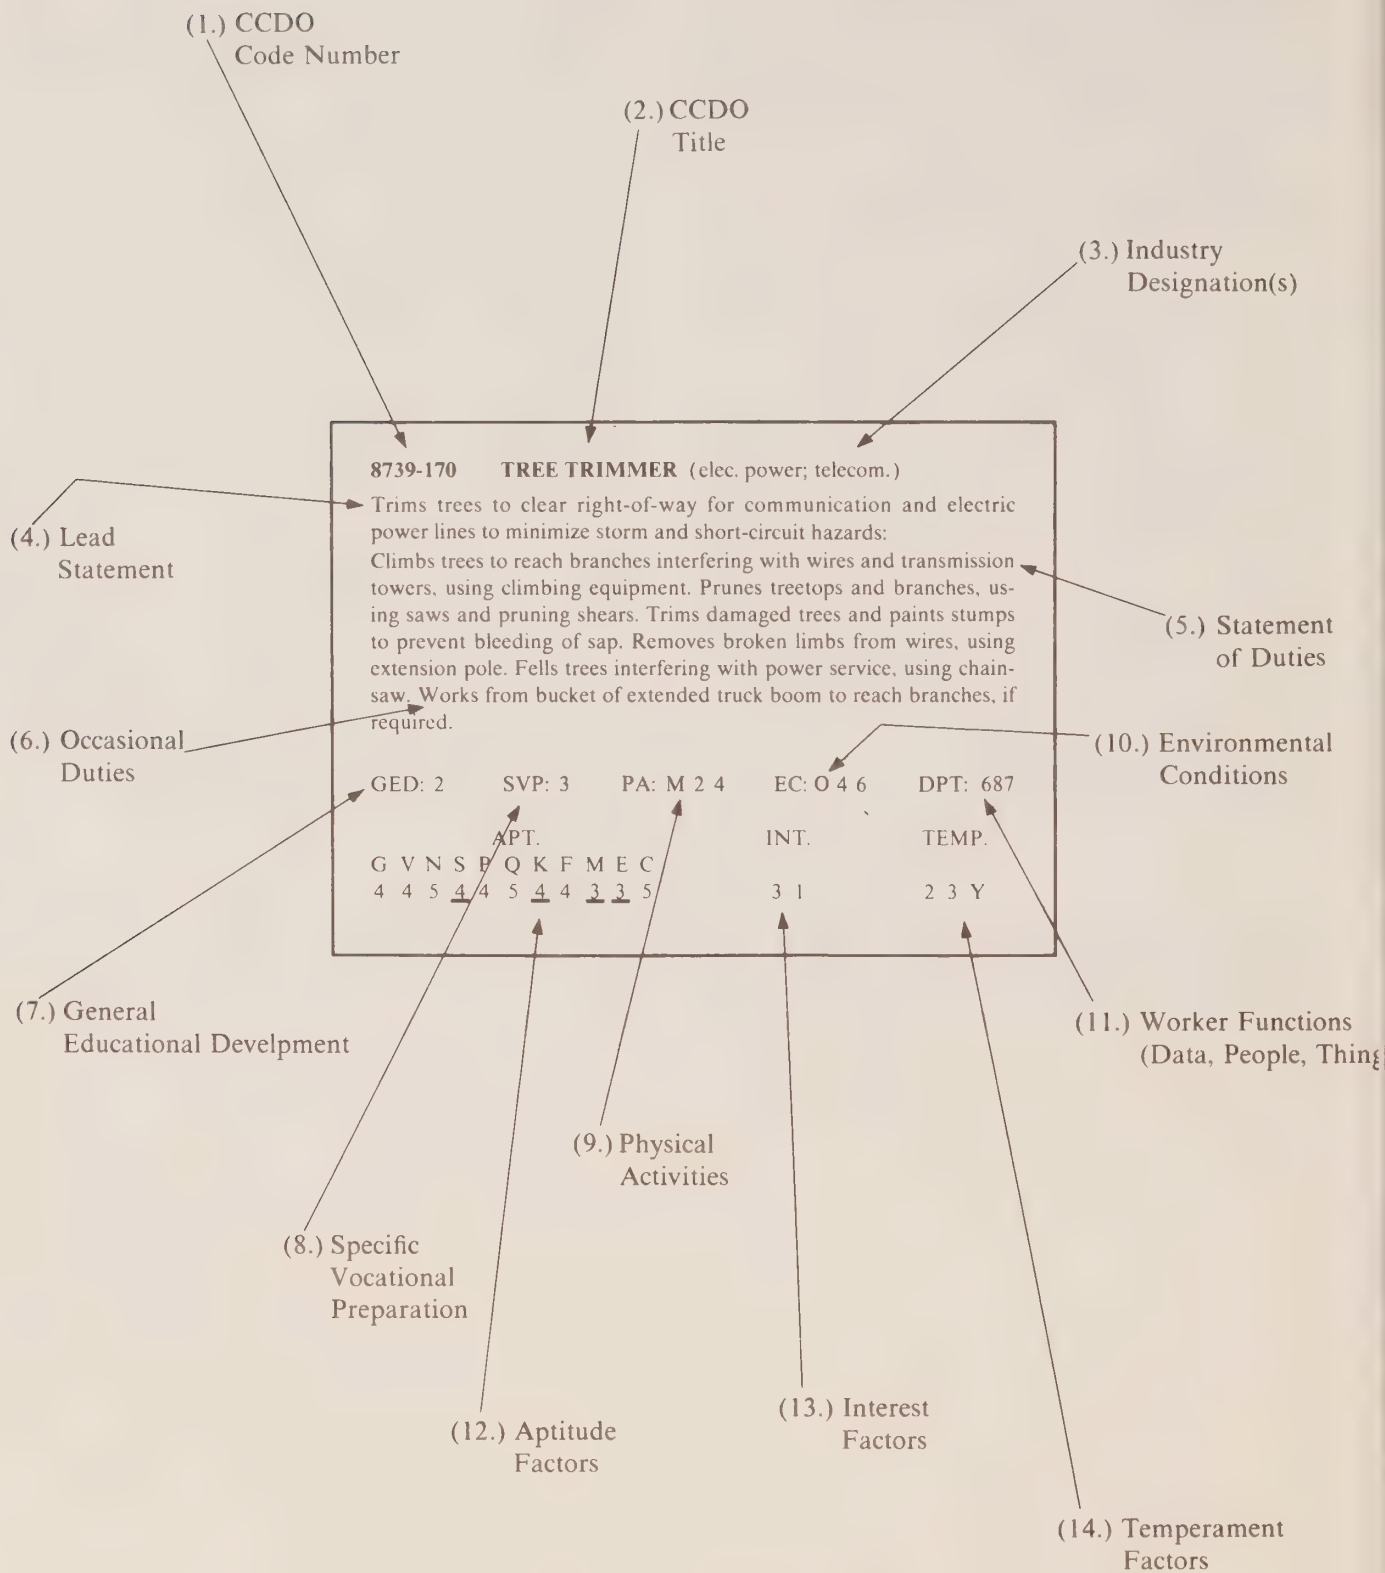

Similarity of services provided, or the assembly and repair of similar articles are frequently used to aid in classifying occupational activity. Occupations may be grouped according to subject matter, as are chemists, because the work is complementary, as is the case with doctors and nurses, or because their functions are closely related. Other occupations are differentiated largely by the complexity of the work, or by the degree of responsibility involved, such as managers, foremen/women, supervisors and the like. Processes involved, materials used or produced, and equipment used are further illustrations of the criteria used to determine the classification structure.

THE CCDO OCCUPATIONAL DESCRIPTION

The term "occupation" refers to a number of jobs which have the same basic work content, even though the duties may vary somewhat, and though they may be found in different establishments or industries. To clarify this, the occupational descriptions in the CCDO consist of a number of different components which collectively provide a realistic representation of the essential nature of the occupation. An actual CCDO occupational description, in which each component has been numbered and labelled, appears on the following page.

THE CCDO OCCUPATIONAL DESCRIPTION

NOTE: Information concerning components of this occupational description follows.

- (1) The CCDO Code Number The full seven-digit code number (8739-170) indicates the exact location of the occupation within the classification structure.
- (2) The CCDO Title This is the title by which the occupation is most commonly known in Canada, or which is most descriptive of the occupation. Called the "CCDO Title", it may occasionally assume an inverted form, such as trimmer, tree. To ensure easy access to the occupational description corresponding to a known occupational title, one can use either the Index accompanying this GUIDE, or the smaller Index provided with each Major Group book.
- (3) The Industry Designation(s) for an occupation appear in abbreviated form in brackets immediately following the CCDO title. The use of industry designations helps to differentiate between occupations with the same title, but with different occupational activity. In addition, most industry designations offer further occupational information by indicating the type of economic activity in which the occupation is found. Should an occupation have two or three industry designations, they will be listed in alphabetical order following the CCDO title. If an occupation has four or more industry designations, the designation used is any industry (any ind.).
- (4) The Lead Statement is a concise description of the nature and purpose of the occupation. It describes the principal duties of the worker, and gives a general indication of how the occupation differs from other occupations.
- (5) The Statement of Duties is necessarily a broad description of the nature and scope of the work involved. This description will not always coincide exactly with the duties required in every job situation, but it does indicate, either directly or by inference, what the workers normally do, how, and why they do it.
- (6) Occasional Duties are normally described at the end of the statement of duties, and are identified through the use of a "may clause" or an "if required" clause.
- (7) General Educational Development (GED) embraces those aspects of education (both formal and informal) which contribute to a worker's reasoning development, the ability to follow instructions, and the acquisition of such tool knowledge as mathematical and language skills. The GED level required by an occupation can be numerically expressed according to an approximate duration of formal schooling, according to the following table:

GED Levels	Approximate Duration of Schooling
6	17 years plus
5	13 to 16 years
4	11 to 12 years
3	9 to 10 years
2	6 to 8 years
1	Less than 6 years

A complete explanation of GED is included in Appendix A of the CCDO GUIDE.

When interpreting the GED level, it must be remembered that informal educative aspects such as previous work experiences, self-study, travelling, and such avocational pursuits as hobbies and leisure activities must also be considered, if it is to be occupationally significant. The GED levels given in the CCDO are not absolute: they must be regarded only as a guide to the approximate level required to attain average, satisfactory work performance.

- (8) Specific Vocational Preparation (SVP) is an expression of the time required to learn the techniques and skills needed for satisfactory performance in an occupation. SVP and GED are separate, although related factors, which are interdependent in their functions: both must be considered in determining the training time requirements of a given occupation. SVP does not include the time required for orientation of a worker to a new job for which he/she is fully qualified. However, it does include any specific preparation which is occupationally significant, whether it is acquired through universities, vocational schools, apprenticeship, on-the-job training, or previous work experience.

Appendix B of the CCDO GUIDE explains the various numerical levels used to express SVP. The various forms of Specific Vocational Preparation are also described.

- (9) Environmental Conditions The environmental conditions designation (EC) is used to indicate the significant physical surroundings of a worker. Because each individual occupation is governed by a unique set of circumstances, a thorough knowledge of both PA and EC ratings is vital in order to accommodate the possible physical limitations of a worker. A complete description of the various factors which govern EC ratings can be found in Appendix C of the CCDO GUIDE.
 - (10) Physical Activities The physical activities designation (PA) is used to indicate the significant physical demands placed on a worker by an occupation. A detailed explanation of the terms used in assigning the PA designation can be found in Appendix D of the CCDO GUIDE.
- Please note that the presence or absence of Physical Activities (PA) factors in a CCDO occupational definition is not to be misconstrued as indicating that the physically handicapped can or cannot perform the duties of that occupation.
- (11) Worker Functions This designation provides a standard terminology for use in summarizing what a worker does on the job. It is based on the premise that every worker is required to function in relation to Data, People, and Things (DPT) at various levels. The functional relationships are expressed by means of verbs descriptive of the basic occupational activity, and fall into three broad categories of approximately descending complexity. A complete explanation of the verbs used to express the DPT relationship is given in Appendix E of the CCDO GUIDE.

- (12) Aptitude Factors The CCDO defines aptitudes as the specific capacity or potentiality of an individual required in order to facilitate the learning of the skills needed for a task or job duties. Eleven aptitude factors are used, each one having a numerical rating which expresses the level achieved by a corresponding percentage of the working population:

1. Upper 10%
2. Upper third exclusive of the highest 10%
3. Middle third
4. Lowest third exclusive of the lowest 10%
5. Lowest 10%

When these levels are underscored, as in 44544544335, they are considered to be significant for satisfactory job performance.

Definitions of the eleven aptitude factors are provided in Appendix F of this GUIDE.

- (13) Interest Factors are regarded as being significant qualification requirements of an occupation, for numerous studies have illustrated a strong correlation between job satisfaction, performance, and a positive interest in the job. For CCDO purposes, an interest is defined as a tendency to become absorbed in an experience through concern in or attraction for certain types of work experiences or activities. There are five pairs of factors used to rate interest, grouped so that a positive concern for one factor of a pair will usually result in rejection of the other factor of that pair.

Interest factor definitions are provided in Appendix F of this Guide.

- (14) Temperament Factors Complementing the interest factor ratings, and designed to be used in conjunction with them, are ratings of temperament. The CCDO defines temperament as being those personality qualities which remain fairly constant, and which reveal a person's characteristic response in terms of a preference, inclination or disposition. Temperament traits are evaluated through the use of twelve factors which are defined in terms of actual work situations. Taken singly or in any combination, they produce a temperament profile indicative of the qualities and adjustments required of a worker by a given occupation.

Definitions of the twelve temperament factors are provided in Appendix F.

SPECIAL GROUPING PROCEDURES

For various reasons, it is not always possible to provide a group with appropriate homogeneity for all occupations which must be classified. Several different residual groups have been created to accommodate those occupations which cannot be satisfactorily classified in other groups of the structure. These residual groups are:

1. Residual Major Group 99
 2. Residual Minor Groups
 3. Residual Unit Groups
 4. Seven-Digit Residual Groups
 5. Special Unit Groups
 6. Special n.e.c. Groups
1. Residual Major Group 99 Major Group 99 – OCCUPATIONS NOT ELSEWHERE CLASSIFIED enjoys the dual distinction of being the only residual Major Group, as well as being the last Major Group in the CCDO. It is used to classify those occupations which cannot be properly classified in any other Major Group of the structure. It is also used to classify occupations having duties which are classifiable in more than one Major Group.
 2. Residual Minor Groups Residual Minor Groups, of which there are only about a dozen in the whole of the CCDO, enable classification of two types of occupations:
 - (a) Occupations which, although belonging in the same Major Group, cannot be classified in one of its other Minor Groups;
 - (b) Occupations whose duties are pertinent to more than one Minor Group.

With few exceptions, a Residual Minor Group has a three-digit code number, composed of its Major Group code number and ending in the digit "9". The group title of a Residual Minor Group is identical to that of its Major Group, but is preceded by the word "Other"; for example, Residual Minor Group 239 – OTHER OCCUPATIONS IN SOCIAL SCIENCES AND RELATED FIELDS.
 3. Residual Unit Groups are the obvious extension of Residual Minor Groups. They serve the same function of further classifying those occupations which belong in the same Minor Group, but cannot be classified in one of its other Unit Groups. Similarly, they provide for classification of those occupations whose duties are pertinent to more than one of these Unit Groups. A Residual Unit Group can be identified by a four-digit code number which ends in "9".

Its title is the same as that of the Minor Group, with the added notation "n.e.c.", meaning "not elsewhere classified". An example of a Residual Unit Group is 2399 – OTHER OCCUPATIONS IN SOCIAL SCIENCES AND RELATED FIELDS, N.E.C.

4. Seven-Digit Residual Groups The Seven-Digit Residual Group title and definition is a device used to provide an appropriate location in which users can temporarily classify new or emerging occupations, prior to their formal inclusion in the classification structure. The code number for a Seven-Digit Residual Group always ends in "99", and its title will usually consist of the word "OTHER", followed by the title of its Unit Group; for example, 8793-199 OTHER STRUCTURAL METAL ERECTORS. Because it relates to more than one occupation, a Seven-Digit Residual Group title does not have an industry designation, nor is it assigned occupational characteristics (GED, SVP, PA, EC, DPT). When this type of title and definition is used, it will always appear as the last one in its Unit Group.
5. Special Unit Groups There are three groups of occupations which have been given special treatment at the unit level of aggregation, although strictly speaking they are not "residual" groups. Like a Residual Group, however, each of these three groups can be readily identified by a unique code number:
 - (a) Supervisors and Foremen/women Unit Groups have a four-digit code number ending in "0", such as Unit Group 8260 – FOREMAN/WOMAN, TEXTILE PROCESSING OCCUPATIONS.
 - (b) Inspectors, Testers, Graders and Samplers Unit Groups have a four-digit code number ending in "6", as in Unit Group 7516 – LOG INSPECTING, GRADING, SCALING AND RELATED OCCUPATIONS.
 - (c) Labourers and Other Elemental Workers Unit Groups can be easily identified by a unique four-digit code number ending in "8"; for example, Unit Group 8148 – OCCUPATIONS IN LABOURING AND OTHER ELEMENTAL WORK, METAL PROCESSING.
6. Special n.e.c. Groups There are certain Minor and Unit Groups with the designation "n.e.c." included in their title, but which do not have a code number ending in "9"; for example, Unit Group 8395 – PATTERNMAKERS AND MOULDMAKERS, N.E.C. The n.e.c. designation is included to indicate that Unit Group 8395 is not the only group for workers who make patterns and moulds.

There is one further type of group used in the CCDO. This is the Sub-Group, which stands somewhat apart as being neither a Major, Minor or Unit Group, nor a Residual Group. In some instances, it proves useful to arrange occupations that could logically be grouped together into Sub-Groups within the Unit Group. Sub-Groups have descriptive titles, and while they indicate the range of occupational code numbers contained, they are neither separately numbered nor defined. An example of sub-grouping can be found within Unit Group 8215 – SLAUGHTERING AND MEAT CUTTING, CANNING, CURING AND PACKING OPERATIONS. This Unit Group has three Sub-Groups of related occupations, arranged as usual in a descending order of complexity as determined by training time requirements:

1. Slaughtering and Meat Cutting Occupations

8215-110 through 8215-178

2. Meat Preparing, Preserving and Packing Occupations

8215-198 through 8215-310

3. Edible and Inedible By-Products Processing Occupations

8215-330 through 8215-362

It will be noted that an interval of twenty is provided between CCDO sub-group code numbers, to allow for future occupational developments: 8215-178 to 8215-198; 8215-310 to 8215-330.

TYPES OF OCCUPATIONAL TITLES

An occupational title represents, in a word or phrase, what people do for a living, the activity in which they are engaged, their principal business, calling, pursuit or employment. Obviously, brevity and clarity are major determining factors of a useful occupational title. To assist in the expression of occupational activity in a concise but meaningful form, a number of different types of titles have been used in the CCDO:

1. The CCDO Title
2. Additional Titles
3. The Seven-Digit Residual Group Title
4. The Master Title
5. The Term Title
6. The General Title

1. The CCDO Title The occupational title accompanying each description is the CCDO Title, which is the title having the most common usage, or which is most descriptive of the work activity. It identifies the type of work described in the occupational description, and is printed in bold-face, upper-case font, preceded by the CCDO Code Number, and followed by the appropriate industry designation(s):

8715-150 TRACK PATROLLER (rail trans.)

The CCDO Title is located in the Alphabetical Index to each Major Group book, as well as in the CCDO Index which forms a part of this GUIDE.

2. Additional Titles are simply other titles by which an occupation may be known, and are provided to assist in the identification and location of an occupation. This proves useful for those occupations which are known by different names in different parts of the country, or which are found in a number of industries. An Additional Title may also be supplied to reflect a more specific work situation than that expressed by the CCDO Title. For example, by referring to the alphabetical indices it can be seen that burglar-alarm servicer and fire-alarm servicer are Additional Titles to the CCDO Title 8735-142 PROTECTIVE-SIGNAL SERVICER (telecom.). Note that Additional Titles are printed in bold-face, lower-case font, and appear with a seven-digit code number and industry designation:

8715-150 track walker (rail trans.)

3. The Seven-Digit Residual Group Title is not a true occupational title, nor has it been assigned occupational characteristics. However, it has been assigned its own unique code number, and it differs from the CCDO Title by being prefaced with the word "OTHER", and by not having an industry designation. The Seven-Digit Residual Group Title is printed in the same script as is the CCDO

Title: 8793-199 OTHER STRUCTURAL METAL ERECTORS.

4. The Master Title Each Master Title has a definition describing duties which are common to a relatively large number of occupations. Reference to a Master Title in an occupational description or Unit Group definition therefore eliminates constant repetition, and so serves as a single source of information for specific occupations with common work elements or duties. Since a Master Title is not in itself a unique occupation, but rather describes duties that are common to a number of different jobs or disciplines, the usual seven-digit occupational code number has been replaced by a five-digit identification number: for example, 01-250 SUPERVISOR; FOREMAN-WOMAN (any ind.). The initial digits (01-) designate a Master Title, and the terminal digits (-250) place the title within the alphabetical classification system of Master Titles. Master Titles, together with their definitions, industry designations and code numbers are included in each Major Group book.

5. The Term Title Each Term Title has a definition describing such factors as work performed or conditions which are common to occupations having the same generic title, such as "Assistant" or "Helper". Reference to a Term Title in an occupational description enables the reader to view the relationship between the defined occupation and other occupations which share the same generic title. Each occupational description that refers to a Term Title definition is complete in itself, but the information contained in the Term Title definition provides useful supplementary information.

Refer to the occupational description for 8799-262 FLOOR-COVERER HELPER (construction), and it will be noticed that the last sentence of the statement of duties makes reference to 02-160 HELPER (any ind.). Like the Master Title, a Term Title is assigned an industry designation, and it has its own five-digit identification number beginning with (02-). Once again, the terminal digits (-160) are used to place the title within the alphabetical classification system of Term Titles. Term Titles, together with their definitions, industry designations and code numbers are included in each Major Group book.

As a word of caution, if a Unit Group definition refers to a Term Title, then it is not referred to in the occupational description itself. It is important to read the Unit Group definition first, before proceeding to the occupational descriptions.

6. The General Title may be given to an occupation in which a worker performs duties common to a number of occupational specialties. The word GENERAL appears in the title for all general definitions; however, use of this word in titles is not limited to this application; for example, 3131-130 NURSE, GENERAL DUTY (medical) is not a general title. General titles have an industry designation and a code number, and are given the same occupational characteristics coding as CCDO titles. When a general title is used in conjunction with a series of CCDO definitions, the definitions of each of these titles includes a reference, immediately following the lead statement, to the duties as described in the general title definition; for example, refer to 2143-122 AIRPORT ENGINEER (prof. & tech., n.e.c.) in CCDO.

SPECIAL OCCUPATIONAL CATEGORIES

For a number of reasons, it proved advantageous to give particular treatment in the classification structure to certain groups of occupations:

1. Managerial Occupations
2. Supervisors and Foremen/women Occupations
3. Technologist and Technician Occupations
4. Inspecting, Testing, Grading and Sampling Occupations, and Regulatory Occupations
5. Labourer/Elemental Worker Occupations
6. Other Special Occupational Categories

- I. Managerial Occupations Managerial occupations have been given special consideration largely because of the ambiguous nature of the title "manager", a term which can be applied to occupations with duties so dissimilar in nature as to have little meaning within the context of the CCDO. For example, the "manager" of a little corner store has little occupational activity common to the "manager" of a nationwide chain of stores. Moreover, the use of such titles as "general manager", "superintendent", and "director" further complicates the distinct identification of managerial occupations. For this reason, managerial occupations will usually fall into one of four broad categories:

- (a) General Managers
- (b) Departmental and Related Managers
- (c) Supervisors and Foremen/women
- (d) Managers of Wholesale, Retail and Service Establishments

- (a) The General Managers represent senior management, and are responsible for planning, organizing, staffing, directing and controlling the functions of an organization. Since they make policy and co-ordinate the activities of various departments, they are, in essence, the managers' manager.

- (b) Departmental and Related Managers The managers of a department, a regional office, or a project are representative of middle management. They report to and receive their instructions from the general manager, and will usually administer their operations through subordinate managers or supervisors. Managers at the departmental level are usually involved in activities related to a number of Major and Minor Groups of occupations. Therefore, a special Major Group was created for the classification of these managerial occupations. Within this Major Group (Major Group 11), managerial occupations which are unique to government are separated from other managerial occupations. It was also necessary to provide for the classification of occupations which are directly related to management. Thus, this Major Group has three Minor Groups:

111 OFFICIALS AND ADMINISTRATORS UNIQUE TO GOVERNMENT

113/114 OTHER MANAGERS AND ADMINISTRATORS

117 OCCUPATIONS RELATED TO MANAGEMENT AND ADMINISTRATION

- (c) Supervisors and Foremen/women In large organizations, neither the general manager nor the departmental managers directly supervise the activities of workers. This is normally the responsibility of the supervisors or foremen/women, who represent the first level of line management. Occupations which are identified as foremen/women and supervisory occupations, including managing supervisors, are normally classified in special Unit Groups in the same Minor Groups as the workers whom they supervise. These special Unit Groups can be identified by four-digit code numbers ending in "0".
- (d) Managers of Wholesale, Retail and Service Establishments which are not departmentalized normally perform duties similar to those of supervisors; however, they have important additional responsibilities in such areas as planning and financing. These occupations are designated as MANAGING SUPERVISORS, and are classified with supervisors (in the appropriate Unit Groups) of Major Groups 51 - SALES OCCUPATIONS and 61 - SERVICE OCCUPATIONS. The expression "managing supervisor" is used to refer to occupations which are not managerial in the sense described in the definition for the Master Title 01-170 MANAGER (prof. & tech., n.e.c.), but which have duties and responsibilities that include those of a supervisor and, to a limited extent, those of a manager.

There are three exceptions to the classification of managers of wholesale, retail and service establishments:

- (i) Managers of chains of wholesale, retail and service establishments, whose activities extend to all establishments in the chain, are regarded as GENERAL MANAGERS, and are classified in Unit Group 1130 - GENERAL MANAGERS AND OTHER SENIOR OFFICIALS.
- (ii) Managers of large departmentalized wholesale, retail and service establishments belonging to a chain are classified as MANAGERS in Unit Group 1137 - SALES AND ADVERTISING MANAGEMENT OCCUPATIONS, and in Unit Group 1142 - SERVICE MANAGEMENT OCCUPATIONS. These managers implement policy determined by head-office management.
- (iii) Managers of large departmentalized wholesale, retail and service establishments which do not belong to a chain are classified as MANAGERS in Unit Group 1130 - GENERAL MANAGERS AND OTHER SENIOR OFFICIALS. Such managers lack direction from a headquarters office, and so are responsible for their own policy-making and implementation.

To further facilitate the identification and classification of managerial occupations, reference is frequently made in the appropriate Unit Group definitions to the following Master Titles and definitions:

01-090 GENERAL MANAGER (prof. & tech., n.e.c.)

01-170 MANAGER (prof. & tech., n.e.c.)

01-180 MANAGING SUPERVISOR (any ind.)*

01-250 SUPERVISOR; FOREMAN/WOMAN (any ind.)

*The last paragraph of this definition introduces the Term Title, 02-450 WORKING PROPRIETOR (any ind.). This title reflects an economic status, rather than work performed, so that working proprietors are treated as managing supervisors, managers, or general managers according to work functions, and are classified in their appropriate Unit Groups.

Similarly, tradesmen/women and professionals who, in addition to their regular duties also perform some managerial functions, are classified according to their primary functional duties: thus barbers in charge of their shops are classified as barbers.

2. Supervisors and Foremen/women Occupations A clear distinction is made in the CCDO, on the basis of work performed, between supervisors and the workers whom they supervise. The title FOREMAN/WOMAN is used when the workers, whose activities are supervised and coordinated, work in occupations concerned with processing, manufacturing, construction and primary industries. The title SUPERVISOR is used to denote the supervisory occupations in all other occupational groups.

By referring to Unit Group 8780 — FOREMEN/WOMEN, OTHER CONSTRUCTION TRADES OCCUPATIONS, several significant aspects of the classification of supervisors and foremen/women can be noted:

- (a) In this Unit Group definition, as in most others relating to supervisors and foremen/women occupations, reference is frequently made to the Master Title and definition 01-250 SUPERVISOR; FOREMAN/WOMAN (any ind.). This definition describes significant duties involving administrative supervision and responsibilities common to the occupations within the group.
- (b) In most cases, a special Unit Group will be assigned to supervisor and foreman/woman occupations, with a code number ending in the digit "0".
- (c) Each supervisor and foreman/woman occupation is assigned the usual seven-digit CCDO code number and the appropriate industry designation. However, since most supervisor and foreman/woman titles and definitions relate to a variety of occupations within a given Unit Group, they are not assigned occupational characteristics data or qualifications profile ratings. Because supervisors and foremen/women are usually engaged in administrative supervision, and do not normally perform any of the duties of the workers under their supervision, they are typically given a DPT designation of 138 (corresponding to Co-ordinating, Supervising, No Significant Relationship).
- (d) Professionals who perform supervisory functions in addition to their regular duties are classified according to their primary functional duties.

3. Technologist and Technician Occupations The tremendous technological developments of recent years have created an increased demand not only for scientists and engineers, but also for qualified scientific and engineering support staff. The titles of "technologist" and "technician" have come to be applied to many of these support occupations, but with little standardization in the definition and use of the terms. Typically, technologists and technicians perform duties primarily related to the following activities:

Technologists	Technicians
Research	Installation
Development	Operation and Maintenance
Design	Quality Control
Testing and Analysis	Production Planning
	Testing and Analysis

Normally, the scientist, engineer or manager is responsible for and qualified in the highest functional levels of these work activities. The technologist and the technician act in support capacities, with the technologist performing more complex duties than the technician.

Technologists usually receive their basic training in post-secondary institutes or colleges, with further specialized on-the-job training required to achieve full occupational competency. Technicians may also receive their basic training in schools or colleges, but some attain full competency by being trained on the job, following the completion of high school. This will obviously affect their GED and SVP ratings, but a GED/SVP rating of 5/7 is typical of a technologist, and a 4/6 rating of a technician. Technologists and technicians generally have a significant relationship to the Data functions of Synthesizing (0), Coordinating (1), Analyzing (2), and Compiling (3), and the Things functions of Setting-Up (0), Precision Working (1), and Operating-Controlling (2). The relationship to the People function is usually incidental as, for instance, when the technologist or technician has some supervisory responsibility. Individual variations in occupational characteristics and qualification profiles will, of course, frequently occur.

Term Titles and definitions are provided, and these give a general description of the type of work performed, and indicate the classification treatment for technologists and technicians. In addition, six Master Titles and definitions have been prepared to assist in describing more specific technologist and technician occupations.

Seven specific Unit Groups have been provided in the classification structure to accommodate many of the technologist and technician occupations. Those who cannot be properly classified in one of these groups are classified in the most appropriate Unit Groups elsewhere in the classification. For example, technologists who are mainly concerned with supervision, instruction or sales are classified as supervisors, instructors or salespersons, respectively.

- 4 Inspecting, Testing, Grading and Sampling Occupations Occupations which are primarily concerned with quality control activities in such areas of industry as the processing of raw materials, and the fabrication, assembly and repair of products are commonly called "inspectors", "testers", "graders" or "samplers". Occupations of this type are classified in special Unit Groups within the appropriate Minor Groups, and references to the applicable Term Titles are made in the Unit Group definitions:

02-150 GRADER (any ind.)

02-170 INSPECTOR (any ind.)

02-330 SAMPLER (any ind.)

02-430 TESTER (any ind.)

Most Unit Groups for inspectors, testers, graders and samplers can be identified by a four-digit code number ending in "6", although there are certain exceptions: Unit Groups 1136, 3156, 6116 and 8786 have been used to designate groups other than those relating to inspectors, testers, graders or samplers. If a Minor Group does not provide a special Unit Group for inspectors, testers, graders or samplers, they will then be classified in the Residual Unit Group of the Minor Group, as in 6169-166 CHECKER (laund., clean. & press.).

Regulatory Occupations Two special groups are provided for the classification of regulatory occupations:

Regulatory officers and inspectors concerned with enforcing and advising on governmental regulations pertaining to health, safety or other areas of governmental administration are classified in Unit Group 1116 – INSPECTORS AND REGULATORY OFFICERS, GOVERNMENT.

Inspectors and regulatory officers concerned with enforcing and advising on adherence to non-governmental standards and regulations in such areas as quality of service, and observance of company policies and procedures in branch organizations are classified in Unit Group 1176 – INSPECTORS AND REGULATORY OFFICERS, NON-GOVERNMENT.

5. Labourer/Elemental Worker Occupations The title LABOURER is used to classify occupations which require the application of common-sense understanding to carry out simple one- or two-step instructions, with little or no training needed for satisfactory work performance. The title ELEMENTAL WORKER may be used for similar occupations which are not, according to custom, referred to as "labourers".

Examine the definition for the Term Title 02-190 LABOURER/ELEMENTAL WORKER (any ind.), which describes duties common to labourers and elemental workers. It can be accurately inferred from this definition that the typical training time designations for occupations of this type are GED: 1 SVP:1 or 2, although there are a few such occupations with a GED rating of 2. The majority of labourer and elemental worker occupations consist of tasks which are normally elementary or physical in nature. Consequently, the relevant worker functions, and their numerical equivalents are:

DATA	PEOPLE	THINGS
Copying (5)	Speaking-Signaling (6)	Feeding-Offbearing (6)
Comparing (6)	Serving (7)	Handling (7)
No Significant Relationship (8)	No Significant Relationship (8)	Handling (7)

Labourer and elemental worker occupations are classified in special Unit Groups within the Minor Group in which they would logically be found. The Unit Group is identified by a four-digit code number ending in "8", and the Unit Group definition will refer to the Term Title, 02-

190 LABOURER/ELEMENTAL WORKER (any ind.). If the logical Minor Group does not provide a special Unit Group for labourers and elemental workers, they are then classified in Unit Group 9918 – OCCUPATIONS IN LABOURING AND OTHER ELEMENTAL WORK, N.E.C.

6. Other Special Occupational Categories have also been given special treatment in the CCDO classification structure:

- (a) Apprentices
- (b) Helpers
- (c) Assistants
- (d) Cadets
- (e) Machinery Set-Up Occupations
- (f) Oiling and Greasing Occupations

A thorough knowledge of Term Titles and definitions is essential to the understanding of these special occupational categories.

- (a) Apprentices An apprentice is a learner of an occupation who performs some of the journeyman's/woman's duties. The nature and scope of the duties which apprentices may perform will vary according to the level of training they have reached. Apprentices are classified in the same Unit Group as the journeyman/woman for the occupation in which they are being trained, and usually immediately follow the journeyman/woman in the classification structure. Only reference definitions are provided for apprentices but they are assigned their own occupational code number. The Term Title and definition for 02-010 APPRENTICE (any ind.) further clarifies the nature of this occupation's classification.
- (b) Helpers Helpers normally work in manufacturing, processing, construction and primary industries in support of more highly qualified workers. They typically perform duties involving a variety of manual functions, and they are clearly subordinate to and under the direction of the worker assisted. Helpers are classified in the appropriate Unit Group according to the kind of work performed. However, if they meet the training time requirements for labourers and elemental workers, then helper occupations are classified in the Unit Group for labourers and elemental workers appropriate to the type of work involved. The Term Title and definition for 02-160 HELPER (any ind.) supplies useful supplementary information.
- (c) Assistants The term "Assistant" has a distinctive meaning in the CCDO. It is applied only to workers who assist others at the professional and managerial level. Assistants perform essentially Data and People related functions, and are clearly subordinate to the worker assisted. Assistants frequently require formal training in the specialization; for example, 3139-110 SURGICAL ASSISTANT (medical). The definition for the Term Title 02-040 ASSISTANT (any ind.) further clarifies the distinction between assistants and helpers.
- (d) Cadets Cadets are classified in the same Unit Group as are fully-qualified workers in the occupation for which they are being trained. For example, 6112-170 POLICE CADET (gov. serv.) is classified in Unit Group 6112 – POLICE OFFICERS AND DETECTIVES, GOVERNMENT.
- (e) Machinery Set-Up Occupations Machinery set-up men and women are classified in the same Unit Group as the operators or tenders of the machines. If the duties of an occupation require both the setting-up and the repair of machines, the occupation is classified according to the predominant aspect of the work. Examining Unit Group 8584 – INDUSTRIAL, FARM AND CONSTRUCTION MACHINERY MECHANICS AND REPAIRERS will illustrate this, for the Unit Group contains occupations concerned with both the repair and the set-up of machinery.

- (f) Oiling and Greasing Occupations Occupations which are primarily concerned with oiling and greasing machinery and other equipment are classified in Unit Group 8589 – MECHANICS AND REPAIRERS, EXCEPT ELECTRICAL, N.E.C., except when the work performed is at the level of labouring or elemental work. In this case, the occupation is classified in Unit Group 9918 – OCCUPATIONS IN LABOURING AND OTHER ELEMENTAL WORK, N.E.C.

LOCATING OCCUPATIONS IN THE CCDO

To locate a specific occupation in the CCDO, there are two routes of access available. These can be used either singly or together, depending on the circumstances.

1. Locating Occupations Using the Alphabetical Indices of Occupational Titles Use of this method requires the application of four logical steps:

- (a) From the occupational information at hand, identify the most significant factors, and select the most probable title under which the occupation may be listed.
- (b) Search either the CCDO Index in this GUIDE or the Index to the appropriate Major Group book, and note the CCDO occupational code number to the title selected.
- (c) Use the occupational code number to locate the corresponding occupational description.
- (d) Compare your information with that of the occupational description to assess the nature of the work performed. Confirm your selection.

If the appropriate occupational description cannot be identified through the first title selected, repeat the process using Additional Titles by which the occupation may be known. These may adopt complete or partial inversion. For example, the CCDO Title for a person who applies hot asphalt to roofs is a ROOFER, ASPHALT. The key word, ROOFER, is common to several occupations, and has been placed first, followed by its modifier, ASPHALT. In this way, a mere glance at the Index shows that the CCDO differentiates between ROOFERS according to the type of material used (metal, shingles, wood, tar and gravel). An Additional Title may also be in the form of a synonym for the CCDO Title. For example, a “fastener” might be classified as a cementer, gluer, nailer, riveter or stapler, depending on the material used or the method of fastening employed.

If you experience difficulty at first in locating a specific occupation, remember that occupational titles and duties will not always conform exactly to your individual perception of the nature of the occupation. You may be exaggerating or minimizing the level, duties or scope of a particular occupation, and what you view as a “repairer” might be classified as a repairer’s helper, an adjuster, a mechanic or a technician, depending on the type of equipment serviced, and how complex that servicing is.

2. Locating Occupations Using the Major, Minor and Unit Group Code Numbers and Definitions This second route of access to a specific occupation is convenient when not enough occupational information is available to initially select a probable occupational title. The process uses the breakdown of Major, Minor and Unit Group titles and definitions which precede the occupational descriptions in the CCDO. A similar listing is provided in this GUIDE, as well as in each Major Group book for the applicable Groups. Six steps are required:

- (a) Identify the significant job factors.
- (b) Select the most appropriate Major Group (title, then definition).
- (c) Select the most appropriate Minor Group (title, then definition).
- (d) Select the most appropriate Unit Group (title, then definition).
- (e) Select the most appropriate occupational title from the Unit Group selected.
- (f) Compare your information with that of the occupational description to assess the nature of the work performed. Confirm your selection.

Group definitions will prove to be an invaluable aid in locating occupations by this method. Their use will not only save time, but may occasionally refer to the specific occupation you are seeking. Group definitions also make reference to Master and Term Titles and definitions, and these may further help to locate the occupation matching the significant activities which you have identified.

Your success in locating occupations by either of these methods is determined largely by your ability to identify the significant aspects of an occupation: remember that an occupational description normally describes only those activities which are common to a number of individual jobs. A thorough knowledge of the criteria used to classify occupations will also help a great deal in their location.

APPENDIX B

Specific Vocational Preparation (SVP)

Specific vocational preparation includes training given in any of the following forms:

a. University or College Training:

Training given by a degree granting institution and for which a degree, diploma, or certificate is issued. The average four-year university or college curriculum (except for liberal arts which is not vocationally oriented) is considered as equivalent to about two years of specific vocational preparation. Each year of university graduate schooling is regarded as one year of specific vocational preparation.

b. Vocational Training:

Training given by a vocational school or a non-degree granting college intended to develop general or specific skills, such as commercial, shop, or art training. In evaluating vocational training of this nature, thirty hours of such schooling is regarded as about fifteen hours of specific vocational preparation.

c. Apprenticeship:

Training given for an apprenticeable occupation.

d. In-Plant Training:

Training given or sponsored by employers either on or off their own premises, intended as preparation for a specific job in their plant.

e. On-The-Job Training:

Any training acquired while serving as a learner or trainee on the job under instruction of a qualified worker, and intended as preparation for a specific job.

f. Experience in Other Jobs:

Experience acquired while serving in less responsible jobs, or serving in other jobs, which prepares a worker for a specific job at a higher grade.

ESTIMATING THE LEVEL OF SPECIFIC VOCATIONAL PREPARATION

The following is an explanation of the various levels of specific vocational preparation:

Level	Time	Level	Time
1	Short demonstration only.	5	Over 6 months up to and including 1 year.
2	Anything beyond short demonstration up to and including 30 days.	6	Over 1 year up to and including 2 years.
3	Over 30 days up to and including 3 months.	7	Over 2 years up to and including 4 years.
4	Over 3 months up to and including 6 months.	8	Over 4 years up to and including 10 years.
		9	Over 10 years.

APPENDIX C

Environmental Conditions (EC)

Environmental Conditions are defined as the physical surroundings of a worker in a specific occupation.

1. Work Location (inside, outside, or both): This factor appears as an initial (I, O, or B) on an occupational description.

Inside (I): Protection from weather conditions but not necessarily from temperature changes. An occupation is considered “inside” if the workers spend approximately 75 per cent or more of their time inside.

Outside (O): No effective protection from weather. An occupation is considered “outside” if the workers spend approximately 75 per cent or more of their time outside.

Both (B): Inside and outside. An occupation is considered “both” if the workers’ activities occur inside and outside in approximately equal amounts.

2. Extremes of Cold Plus Temperature Changes:

a. Extremes of Cold: Temperature sufficiently low to cause marked bodily discomfort unless the worker is provided with exceptional protection.

b. Temperature Changes: Variations in temperature which are sufficiently marked and abrupt to cause noticeable bodily reactions.

3. Extremes of Heat Plus Temperature Changes:

a. Extremes of Heat: Temperature sufficiently high to cause marked bodily discomfort unless the worker is provided with exceptional protection.

b. Temperature Changes: Same as 2.b.

Note: Occupations are not rated for EC: 2 (Extremes of Cold) or EC: 3 (Extremes of Heat) on the basis of atmospheric conditions alone. It is taken for granted that a country with our climate, workers will occasionally be subjected to extremes of both cold and heat.

4. Wet and/or Humid: Contact with water or other liquids, and/or atmospheric conditions with moisture content sufficiently high to cause marked bodily discomfort.

5. Noise and/or Vibration: Sufficient noise, either constant or intermittent, to cause marked distraction or possible injury to the sense of hearing.

6. Hazards: Situations in which the individual is exposed to the definite risk of bodily injury.

7. Atmospheric Conditions: Fumes, odours, toxic conditions, dust, and poor ventilation.

Fumes: Smoky or vaporous exhalations, usually odorous, thrown off as the result of combustion or chemical reaction.

Odours: Noxious smells, either toxic or non-toxic.

Toxic Conditions: Exposure to toxic dust, fumes, gases, vapours, mists, or liquids which cause general or localized disabling conditions as a result of inhalation or action on the skin.

Dust: Air filled with small particles of any kind, such as textile dust, flour, wood, leather or feathers, and inorganic dust including silica and asbestos, which make the workplace unpleasant or are the source of occupational diseases.

APPENDIX D

Physical Activities (PA)

Physical Activities express both the physical requirements of the occupation and the physical capacities a worker must have to meet these requirements. The presence or absence of Physical Activities factors in a CCDO occupational definition is not to be misconstrued as indicating that the physically handicapped can or cannot perform the duties of that occupation.

- 1 - Strength (Sedentary, Light, Medium, Heavy, Very Heavy Work): This factor appears as an initial (S, L, M, H, or VH) in an occupational description.

Sedentary Work (S): Lifting 10 lbs. maximum and occasionally lifting and/or carrying such articles as dockets, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary occupation is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out some duties. Occupations are sedentary if walking and standing are required only occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met.

Light Work (L): Lifting 20 lbs. maximum with frequent lifting and/or carrying of objects weighing up to 10 lbs. Even though the weight lifted may be only a negligible amount, an occupation is in this category (a) when it requires walking or standing to a significant degree, or (b) when it involves sitting most of the time with a degree of pushing and pulling of arm and/or leg controls.

Medium Work (M): Lifting 50 lbs. maximum with frequent lifting and/or carrying of objects weighing up to 20 lbs. Consideration of (b) under "light work" may apply here.

Heavy Work (H): Lifting 100 lbs. maximum with frequent lifting and/or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 lbs.

Very Heavy Work (VH): Lifting objects in excess of 100 lbs. with frequent lifting and/or carrying of objects weighing 50 lbs. or more.

Note: The descriptions given for the five degrees of Factor 1 make reference to the terms "Lifting, Carrying, Pushing, and Pulling". These four terms are the primary "strength" physical requirements, and generally speaking, a worker who is engaged in one of these activities can be engaged in all. These activities can be defined as follows:

Lifting: Raising or lowering an object from one level to another (includes upward pulling).

Carrying: Transporting an object, usually holding it in the hands or arms or on the shoulder.

Pushing: Exerting force upon an object so that the object moves away from the force (includes slapping, striking, kicking, and treadle actions).

Pulling: Exerting force upon an object so that the object moves toward the force (includes jerking).

- 2 - Climbing and/or Balancing: For climbing, the emphasis is placed upon body agility; for balancing, it is placed upon body equilibrium.

Climbing: Ascending or descending ladders, stairs, scaffolding, ramps, poles, ropes, and the like, using the feet and legs and/or hands and arms.

Balancing: Maintaining body equilibrium to prevent falling when walking, standing, crouching, or running on narrow, slippery, or erratically moving surfaces; or maintaining body equilibrium when performing gymnastic feats.

- 3 - Body Dexterity: The skill and ease in using body members.

Stooping: Bending the body downward and forward by bending the spine at the waist.

Kneeling: Bending the legs at the knees to come to rest on the knee or knees.

Crouching: Bending the body downward and forward by bending the legs and spine.

Crawling: Moving about on the hands and knees or hands and feet.

- 4 - Reaching, Handling, Fingering, and/or Feeling: These activities involve the use of one or both the upper extremities.

Reaching Above Shoulder: Extending the hands and arms in any direction above the shoulder.

Reaching Below Shoulder: Extending the hands and arms in any direction below the shoulder.

Handling: Seizing, holding, grasping, turning, or otherwise working with the hand or hands (fingering not involved).

Fingering: Picking, pinching, or otherwise working primarily with the fingers (rather than with the whole hand or arm as in handling).

Feeling: Perceiving such attributes of objects and materials as size, shape, temperature, or texture, by means of receptors in the skin, particularly those of the finger-tips.

- 5 - Talking: Expressing or exchanging ideas by means of the spoken word. Talking is important for those activities in which the individual must impart oral information to clients or to the public, and in those activities in which he must convey detailed or important instructions to other employees accurately, loudly, or quickly.

- 6 - Hearing: Perceiving the nature of sounds by the ear. Hearing is important for those activities which require the ability to receive detailed information through oral communication, or to make fine discriminations in sound.

- 7 - Seeing: Obtaining impressions through the eyes of the shape, size, distance, motion, colour, or other characteristics of objects. For CCDO purposes, Normal Vision is assumed. An occupation is rated for PA: 7 - (Seeing) only when there is a significant requirement for one or more of the following component factors:

Acuity, Far: Clarity of vision at 20 feet or more.

Acuity, Near: Clarity of vision at 20 inches or less.

Depth Perception: Three-dimensional vision. The ability to judge distance and space relationships so as to see objects where and as they actually are.

Accommodation: Adjustment of the lens of the eye to bring an object into focus. This component factor is especially important when doing near-point work at varying distances from the eye.

Colour Vision: The ability to identify and distinguish colours.

Field of Vision: The area that can be seen up and down, or to the right or left, while the eyes are fixed on a given point.

- 8 - Controls: Operating machinery requiring the use of body members and eye-hand-foot co-ordination.

Hand-Arm: Controlling the operation of machinery using only hand(s) and arm(s).

Foot-Leg: Controlling the operation of machinery using only the leg(s) and one or both feet.

Eye-Hand-Foot Co-ordination: Controlling the operation of machinery requiring the co-ordination of movement of the hand and foot with each other in accordance with visual stimuli.

APPENDIX E

Worker Functions in Relation to Data, People and Things (DPT)

The various kinds of functions are identified and defined on the following pages. They appear in three groups arranged in each instance from the relatively simple to the more complex at the top in such a manner that each successive function attempts to include those that are simpler and exclude the more complex. As each of the functions listed in the following table may represent a range of complexity, and because of the limited number of functions in each group, their arrangement should not be considered as precisely hierarchical. For these reasons, the CCDO exercises caution in their use as verb forms in occupational descriptions.

The three broad categories of functional relationships to Data, People, and Things are as follows:

DATA (1st digit)	PEOPLE (2nd digit)	THINGS (3rd digit)
0 Synthesizing	0 Mentoring	0 Setting-Up
1 Co-ordinating	1 Negotiating	1 Precision Working
2 Analyzing	2 Instructing	2 Operating-Controlling
3 Compiling	3 Supervising	3 Driving-Operating
4 Computing	4 Diverting	4 Manipulating-Operating
5 Copying	5 Persuading	5 Tending
6 Comparing	6 Speaking-Signaling	6 Feeding-Offbearing
7 *	7 Serving	7 Handling
8 No Significant Relationship	8 No Significant Relationship	8 No Significant Relationship

DATA: Information, knowledge, and conceptions related to Data, People and Things, obtained by observation, investigation, interpretation, visualization and mental creation; incapable of being touched. Written data take the form of numbers, words and symbols; other data are ideas, concepts and oral verbalization.

0 Synthesizing: Integrating analyses of data to discover facts and/or develop knowledge, concepts or interpretations.

1 Co-ordinating: Determining time, place, and sequence of operations or action to be taken on the basis of analysis of data; executing determinations and/or reporting on events.

2 Analyzing: Examining and evaluating data. Presenting alternative action in relation to the evaluation is frequently involved.

3 Compiling: Accumulating information which is usually recorded physically, but which may be stored mentally; gathering, collating, or classifying information about Data, People and Things. Reporting and/or carrying out a prescribed action in relation to the information is frequently involved.

4 Computing: Performing arithmetic operations and reporting on and/or carrying out prescribed action in relation to them. Does not include counting.

5 Copying: Transcribing, entering, or posting data.

6 Comparing: Understanding the readily observable functional, structural, or compositional characteristics (whether similar to or divergent from obvious standards) of Data, People, and Things.

7 * The functional digit 7 is not used in the Data Table in the CCDO.

8 No Significant Relationship

PEOPLE: Human beings; also includes animals dealt with on an individual basis.

0 Mentoring: Dealing with individuals in terms of their total personality in order to advise, counsel and/or guide them with regard to problems that may be resolved by legal, scientific, clinical, spiritual and/or other professional principles.

1 Negotiating: Exchanging ideas, information and opinions with others to formulate policies and programs and/or arrive jointly at decisions, conclusions or solutions.

2 Instructing: Teaching subject matter to others or training others (including animals) through explanation, demonstration and supervised practice; or making recommendations on the basis of technical disciplines.

3 Supervising: Determining or interpreting work procedures for a group of workers, assigning specific duties to them, maintaining harmonious relations among them and promoting efficiency.

4 Diverting: Entertaining others.

5 Persuading: Influencing others in favour of a product, service, or point of view.

6 Speaking-Signaling: Talking with and/or signaling people to convey or exchange information. Includes giving assignments and/or directions to helpers or assistants, but excludes ordinary conversation.

7 Serving: Attending to the needs or requests of people or animals, or the expressed or implicit wishes of people. Immediate response is involved.

8 No Significant Relationship

THINGS: Inanimate objects as distinguished from human beings; substances or materials; machines, tools, or equipment; products. A thing is tangible and has shape, form, and other physical characteristics.

0 Setting Up: Adjusting machines or equipment by replacing or altering tools, jigs, fixtures and attachments to prepare them to perform their functions, change their performance, or restore their proper functioning if they break down. Workers who set up one or a number of machines for other workers or who set up and personally operate a variety of machines are included here.

1 Precision Working: Using body members and/or tools or work aids to work, move, guide or place objects or materials in situations where ultimate responsibility for the attainment of standards occurs and selection of appropriate tools, objects, or materials, and the adjustment of the tool to the task require exercise of considerable judgement.

2 Operating-Controlling: Starting, stopping, controlling and adjusting the progress of machines or equipment designed to fabricate and/or process objects or materials. Operating machines involves setting up the machine and adjusting the machine or material as the work progresses. Controlling equipment involves observing gauges, dials and other indicators, and turning valves and other devices to control such factors as temperature, pressure, flow of liquids, speed of pumps, and reactions of materials. Set-up involves several variables and adjustment is more frequent than in tending.

3 Driving-Operating: Starting, stopping and controlling the actions of machines or equipment for which a course must be steered or which must be guided, in order to fabricate, process, and/or move things or people. Involves such activities as observing gauges and dials; estimating distances and determining speed and direction of other objects; turning cranks and wheels; pushing clutches or brakes; and pushing or pulling gear shifts or levers. Includes such machines as cranes, conveyor systems, tractors, furnace-charging machines, paving machines and hoisting machines. Excludes manually-powered machines, such as handtrucks and dollies, and power-assisted machines, such as electric wheelbarrows and handtrucks.

4 Manipulating-Operating: Using body members, tools, or special devices to work, move, guide, or place objects or materials requiring the use of hand tools or special devices. Requires a significant combination of eye-hand co-ordination, and manual and finger dexterity. Involves some latitude for judgement with regard to precision attained and selection of appropriate tool, object or material, although this is readily manifest.

5 Tending: Starting, stopping, and observing the functioning of machines and equipment. Involves adjusting materials or controls of the machine, such as changing guides, adjusting timers and temperature gauges, turning valves to allow flow of materials and flipping switches in response to lights. Little judgement is involved in making these adjustments.

6 Feeding-Offbearing: Inserting, throwing, dumping, or placing materials in or removing them from machines or equipment which are automatic or tended or operated by other workers.

7 Handling: Using body members, hand tools and/or special devices to work, move, or carry objects or materials. Involves little or no latitude for judgement with regard to attainment of standards or in selecting appropriate tool, object or material.

8 No Significant Relationship

Records defects, estimates percentage of frozen product loss and assigns grade according to defects found. Examines defrosted or fresh samples of fish products by viewing on a lighted candling-table and by smell, touch and taste to detect uncharacteristic odours, foreign matter such as bones, scales, and roe, bruises or colour abnormalities, improper texture and other faults. Counts defects in measured areas of samples to determine frequency of occurrence. Records defect points allotted and ascertains if total points exceed specified defect tolerances. Assesses intrinsic quality factors and assigns grades to sample units of product. Rejects units which exceed

INDEX SECTION

INTRODUCTION

The new CCDO Index is a large but highly functional arrangement of job and occupational titles. Studies have revealed that using the original Alphabetical Index of Occupational Titles was the most common method of locating occupations. However, most users found the 1971 Index to be a complex and confusing affair, so the new CCDO Index has been both simplified and greatly expanded. For the first time it is comprised of job titles as well as occupational titles. It now totals some 30,000 titles, more than double the number of entries found in the 1971 Index. All of the original occupational titles have been included, with the exception of those found to be obsolete. Many new titles have been added as a result of revisions to certain Major Groups in the past years, and others have been acquired through intensive job and occupational studies. Numerous users have provided information on previous discrepancies, such as obsolete or incorrectly classified titles, and it is our earnest hope that such contributions will continue. Any information which might help to maintain the accuracy and precision of the CCDO and its Index may be directed to:

Chief, Operations Division
National Occupational Analysis and Classification Systems Branch
Employment and Immigration Canada
Place du Portage, Phase IV, 5th Floor
OTTAWA/HULL, K1A 0J9

Users of the CCDO who are unable to locate a specific occupation or its title may direct enquiries to the same address, observing the following procedure:

1. Indicate the originator's name, address and telephone number;
2. Commence all communications with subject heading: "Coding Enquiry";
3. Give the job title(s) by which the occupation is known;
4. Indicate the industry;
5. Describe the job duties in full;
6. Describe the education and experience normally required to perform these duties.

Replies to coding enquiries will be made without delay.

While the new Index is much larger than its predecessor, it has also been made simpler and more convenient to use. Only two types of occupational titles are now listed, these being the official CCDO Title and Additional Titles.

The CCDO Title (previously identified as the Base Title) is the title by which an occupation is most commonly known in Canada, or which is most descriptive of the nature of the occupation. Printed in bold-face, upper-case font, the CCDO Title appears with the appropriate industry designation(s) and seven-digit code: e.g. FEATHER RENOVATOR (laund., clean. & press.) 6198-154. The CCDO Title is now the only occupational title to appear with the occupational description in the revised CCDO.

Additional Titles is the collective term given to all previous alternate, related, and example titles, as well as the various job titles which are now included. These are simply titles by which an occupation may be known in different parts of the country or in a variety of industries. An Additional Title may also be supplied to reflect a more specific work situation than that expressed by the CCDO Title. For example, 8735-142 PROTECTIVE-SIGNAL SERVICER (telecom.) has such Additional Titles as burglar-alarm servicer and fire-alarm servicer. An Additional Title may serve the further function of assisting the user to locate occupations whose titles have been changed so that they are no longer sex-discriminatory. Such previous titles as REPAIRMAN and FOREMAN now appear as Additional Titles to CCDO Titles replacing them, REPAIRER and FOREMAN/WOMAN respectively. Like the CCDO Titles, Additional Titles appear with the appropriate industry designation(s) and seven-digit code number, but they are printed in bold-face, lower-case font:

asphalt-spreader operator (construction) 8713-114.

Additional Titles appear in the CCDO Index but they are not included in the occupational descriptions.

A list of industry designations and their abbreviations follow the CCDO Index of Job/Occupational Titles. Entries in upper-case font are actual industry designations, and those in lower-case font are inversions provided to assist the user in their identification and location. In the last part of the CCDO Index, definitions are provided for each of the 96 Industry Designations.
